

COLLEGE GIRLS WIN DIPLOMAS

Woman's College Finals Reach
Brilliant Climax at Academy of Music To-night.

CLASS-DAY EXERCISES

Addresses By the Graduates and Annual Alumnae Luncheon
Were Notable Features.

The Woman's College finals which have been in progress several days marking the close of one of the most successful seasons that institution has ever had, will come to a brilliant climax to-night at 8:15 o'clock at the Academy of Music. At this time the honors of the college will be conferred on those who have won them and Dr. W. J. Young will deliver the address.

Two features of yesterday's exercises were the class day ceremonies in the morning and the alumnae luncheon in the early afternoon.

Class day exercises at the Woman's College, which took place at 11 o'clock were attended by an unusually large crowd of interested spectators, filling the chapel and overflowing into the halls.

The Class Flower.
A number of out-of-town visitors were present and the occasion was made most enjoyable by the presence of the relatives of those whose graduation day it was.

Shortly at 11 o'clock the forty-three young ladies of the senior class filed into the chapel bearing a chain of smilax and singing their class song, composed by Miss Uldine Valden and set to music by Professor Reinhardt.

The decorations in the chapel were in the green and cream of the class colors. There for the art reception on Saturday evening and adding a brilliant touch of color to the scene.

Great bowls of Kaiserin roses, the class flower, were also used. The walls still held the paintings by the art class, hung there for the art reception on Saturday evening and adding a brilliant touch of color to the scene.

Miss Evelyn Martin, president of the class of 1906, and one of the most popular girls at the college, opened the exercises with a graceful and hearty address of welcome.

Miss Bessie Wilson, as class orator, held the breathless attention of the audience by her clear enunciation and ringing voice. Her oration was exceedingly well prepared and her explanation of the class ideals, as embodied in the motto, was excellent.

Miss Ruth Blanton, as historian of the class, gave a faithful account of the important events in its history since the beginning of the senior year.

Miss Delia Dudley came next with the class poem, published some days ago.

Miss Myra Ackiss, as class prophet, called forth bursts of applause as she gave a faithful account of the class, each girl received a rose as her future life was forecast. Miss Evelyn Martin then made a prophecy for a brilliant future for Miss Ackiss herself.

The reading of the class will and testament by Miss Annie Leland Green gave an opportunity for more sallies of wit, and the writer was applauded to the echo.

Miss Puckett's Validictory.
Miss Maude Puckett, in a brief validictory, bade the members of the class God-speed.

The singing of the Farewell song by the class closed the exercises within doors, and all proceeded to the lawn, where Miss Lucy Scott delivered the oration in honor of the class tree, a sturdy maple, planted in the early spring and named in honor of Professor and Mrs. Melville A. Martin.

The final rite was the bonfire oration by Miss Jennie Chory, and the destruction of the most hateful books, each young lady feeling a short verse explaining her detestation.

The last class meeting of the season was then held, after which the graduating class proceeded in a body to Guth's restaurant, where they were the guests of honor at the annual alumnae luncheon.

Alumnae Luncheon.
Every one was unanimous in declaring the alumnae luncheon of the Woman's College, taking place at Guth's, the most enjoyable ever given. Promptly at two o'clock the dining-room was filled with a host of girls who had previously registered at the door. After the alumnae were seated the graduates entered in a body. The dainty toast cards were in the form of the pennant of the Woman's College, the colors being green and white. Other scores of boxes of bonbons were given by the Guth Chocolate Company.

Bunches of sweet peas tied with green and white ribbons were at each place. Over the graduates' table smilax was festooned and college flags were hung at intervals around the room.

Miss Emma Whitfield announced that Dr. William Matthews had been elected to represent the alumnae on the board of trustees of the Woman's College. A telegram was also read from Miss Mary Carter Anderson, expressing her good wishes for the alumnae and graduates.

A copy of the annual report of the Alumnae Association was given to each of the one hundred and twenty-three ladies present.

Toast to Graduates.
Miss Belle Willingham, toastmistress, introduced Miss Clara Virginia Becker, president of the Association, who said by way of graceful welcome to the graduates:

"A toast to the graduating class of 1906. And what a class, forty-five strong! A theme for flights and fancy and for experiment and action. But alas, they say I may not discourse at length, but confine myself to a few words of welcome."

I think, though, that I could rival your own class prophecies of to-day in imagining things possible, though to us perhaps, ancient and far away, they seem improbable that each one of you will accomplish in the glorious days before you even to the most difficult of tasks, that of making happy one single specimen of that species, with all his vagaries—man. Some of my sister alumnae may be thinking my lack of experience should disqualify me from airing such opinions, and it is only fair to say that my conclusion is drawn from the large number of our girls who have undertaken just this problem, for like Napoleon and the Alps they will be content to perform only that which is most difficult and I suppose, creditable. We may have these opinions for to-day at least since he is exiled from our midst.

But since I may not prophesy, let me polish to leave this problem for our toastmistress and those who respond to the toast she may propose: I must fulfill my purpose of telling you—and really it is far more attractive and tangible to speak about forty-five bright, sensible, happy girls right before me, concrete beings whom we can see and hear, and touch, if need be, than to abstractly theorize about woman and women, singular and plural, as I see by the toast cards the others are going to do. My purpose is to tell you I know you are wondering when—how sincerely and heartily we welcome you among us to-day.

Days of the Cap and Gown.
There is not one of us here but thinks of the day when she too wore the cap and gown and sat at the table of honor and what a "comfy" feeling it was to have some one from the august body of alumnae tell us they were glad to see us.

We are not nearly so formidable as we seem to you or rather as they seemed to me that day. If we had been there in little probability that I would be welcoming you now.

We want you to be one of us in all the plans, aims and ambitions we shall ever have. From henceforth and forever we are sister alumnae, owing allegiance to one Alma Mater and working, it should be for a common cause, it matters not what it may be so long as it is good and true, and perhaps none nobler than the fostering of a higher education for women, especially for the women of the South.

Therefore, we welcome you dear class of 1906 not only to our midst, in gatherings of this kind and to our Association, but to our very hearts with their robust impulses for a better life, a broader vision, a more worthy reason of being. A welcome the Association wishes to extend not only to the new alumnae, but to everyone present to-day.

Frowns will be gathering upon the brow of our toastmistress, Miss Willingham, who may be thinking I am encroaching upon her rights and privileges if I do not soon leave some few things for her to say. To her tender care I will entrust you, but however her genius may express her words of greeting, they can mean any more truly a welcome than mine to the class of 1906, both on my behalf and for the Alumnae Association of the W. R. C.

Miss Uldine Valden responded to the toast on behalf of the class and then the class song was sung with great animation, Miss Willingham prefaced Mrs. Katherine Guder Langley's response to the toast "What Can a Woman Do?" with some particularly bright and catchy introductory remarks. The next toast was "Women of our land and our world."

Miss Florence Thalmier's eloquent response led up to the final toast, "The 'A' of W. C. R." It was the happy privilege, happily executed, of Mrs. Anne Harwood Abrahamson to make the closing response.

Graduates and Alumnae.
The graduates present were Misses Ruth Blanton, Mary Burnell Billingsley, Nannie Verser, Nannie Hall, Lucile Busch, Jessie Brown, Uldine Valden, Irene Galeski, Mary Barnes, Lucile Scott, Elizabeth Scott, May Shepard, Lily Trevel, Ethel Pickett, Madeline Deans, Annie Lee Green, Virgie Roberts, Bessie Taliaferro, Louise Thomason, Jennie Chory, Maude Puckett, Bessie Wilson, Carrie Fitzpatrick, Mary Pitts, Myrtle Dodson, Lizette Chaplin, Mary Perkins, Edna Smith, Annie Starnke, Inez Goddin, Ruth Lewis, Mamie Pollard, Myra Ackiss, Delia Dudley, Louise Dickenson, Mary Smith, Susie Bell, Minnie Coxhill and Evelyn Martin.

Entertained By President.
On last evening the graduating class of the college was entertained by their President, Miss Evelyn Martin. Professor and Mrs. M. A. Martin, of the college, were the guests of honor. Much to the surprise of the president, Professor Martin arose, and in a few well chosen words expressed to Miss Martin the appreciation of the class for her faithful and efficient service in token of which he handed her a beautiful gold ring set with exquisite pearls. Miss Martin made a most happy and captivating response.

Later in the evening Professor Martin took occasion to congratulate the class on the magnificent work they had done in his classes and on the splendid records they had made for themselves. He spoke of their uniform courtesy and kindness to himself and Mrs. Martin, and assured them that they would watch with sympathetic interest the career of each one. He spoke also of the honor done himself and wife in the naming of the class-tree, planted in the morning, and then holding aloft the beautiful class ring presented him by Miss Puckett on behalf of the class, he assured them that he would cherish their memory, and esteem their love as expressed in this token so long as life lasted.
